

KSES President's Lecture (PL2)

Changing Trends in Korean Shoulder Joint

Ki-yong Byun

23rd president of Korean Shoulder and Elbow Society,
Joint Orthopaedic Clinic, Daejeon, Korea

Korea is one of most dynamic nation in the world. We have been rapidly developed not only in economic field, but also in medical field.

Korean Shoulder & Elbow Society (KSES) was established in 1993. KSES is relatively young society compared to Japan Shoulder Society which is the oldest shoulder society in the world. Also most of our society members are young and active. They are ready to absorb new technique. Many outstanding articles are produced and published in famous journals.

But we meet great barrier recently. There are too many surgeons in a small country. We have too many joints specific private hospitals seek the maximum profits.

There are many challengers from Oriental medicine, Rehabilitation medicine and Pain medicines. Our public and private insurance system instigated this phenomenon.

Lecturer's Profile

Education

1989 Graduation of Chungnam national university college of medicine

1989~1993 Resident of Chungnam national university hospital

Academic career

1995 Clinical instructor of Chungnam national university college of medicine

1997 Assistant professor of Chungnam national university college of medicine

2001 Associate professor of Chungnam national university college of medicine

2002~present

Clinical professor of Chungnam national university college of medicine

Society positions

23rd president of Korean Shoulder and Elbow Society

Board member of Korean Shoulder and Elbow Society

Board member of Korean Orthopaedic Ultrasonography society

Former general secretary of Korean Shoulder and Elbow Society

Working position

Director of Joint Orthopaedic Clinic, Daejeon Korea